SENATE TAKES UP RELIEF FOR UNEMPLOYED

SENATOR WAGNER, DEMOCRAT, N. Y., INTRODUCES BILL

SENATE COMMERCE COMMITTEE TAKES MEASURE UNDER CONSIDERATION

AIMS TO PROVIDE A FEDERAL EMPLOYMENT STABILIZA- TION BOARD

Washington, March 6.—(U.P.)—The first bill providing a definite means of relief for the unemployed of the nation, up for consideration by the senate commerce committee, was of major interest in congress today.

The bill, introduced by Senator Wagner, democrat, New York, would provide for creation of a federal employment stabilization board, authorized to spend as much as $150,000,000 during each fiscal year for unemployment relief.

Wagner introduced the bill after the problem of unemployment had held the senate in heated controversy for part of several days, delaying progress of the tariff bill.

The defeat of the democrat-western republican coalition in yesterday's sugar vote left that once-powerful combination of senate forces somewhat dubious regarding the possible outcome of pending battles on lumber, petroleum, cement, hides, leathers and shoes.

As today's session opened, the proposal of Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, that the tariff on casein be increased from 5-1-2 to 6 cents a pound was up for debate, under an agreement whereby a vote would be taken at noon. The proposal is considered a farm relief measure but the farm bloc is divided in the matter as the duty already has been increased heavily.

Meanwhile senate leaders abandoned all hope of passing the tariff bill this week and made their plans on expectation of sending the measure to conference about the end of next week.

The sugar vote increased the tariff on Cuban sugar from 1.75 to two cents a pound and on other sugar, of which there is little imported, from 2 to 2.5 cents. The senate reversed its action of January when it voted 48-38 to retain the present rate of 1.75 cents instead of the figure of 2.2 recommended by its finance committee.

Nine senators changed from the low sugar side on the former vote to the higher tariff side yesterday, which opposition senators contended proved their charges of log-rolling and vote trading between the sugar, lumber, hides and other groups.

Most of those who changed have a direct interest in other tariff proposals. Coalition leaders were waiting with some anxiety for the next big votes because of these switches.

Dry leaders entered their second day of testimony before the house judiciary committee against bills before that committee to repeal or modify the 18th amendment. Louis H. Taber, master of the National Grange; Mrs. K. G. Strawbridge, Philadelphia society woman, and Rep. O. B. Burnett, dry republican from North Dakota, were three of the witnesses to appear today.

The dries have six days remaining, after today, to conclude their testimony, refuting evidence presented by wets during the first eight days of the hearing.

A bill providing federal regulation of motor buses was before the house today. Rep. Sirbivich, democrat, New York, was to speak for an hour on the narcotic situation and traffic in drugs.

The senate agriculture committee considered a bill appropriating $25,000,000 for the purchase of wheat for starving Chinese. The lobby committee continued its investigation.

VICTIMS OF COUNTERFEITERS VIEW SUSPECTS

SEVERAL HUNDRED DOLLARS IN
BOGUS $10 BILLS FLOATED
IN TWIN CITIES

CLAIMED THE RING SOUGHT TO FLOOD NORTHWEST WITH $60,000 SPURIOUS MONEY

St. Paul, March 6.—(U.P.)—Victims of a currency counterfeiting ring today viewed three police characters who are suspected of passing several hundred dollars in bogus $10 bills in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

The three suspects are Solly Kaminski, Joe Cittadino and Ed "Whitey" Davis. Several other persons apprehended in a federal secret service investigation were released.

Cittadino was said to have been partially identified as a leader in a plot to flood the northwest with $60,000 in counterfeit currency. Davis was charged with complicity in the counterfeiting ring after he was arrested on a narcotics charge.

Already under bond on a liquor charge, Kaminski was arrested yesterday. He was questioned when the counterfeit money first appeared here but was released without a charge being made.

TWO EDITORS ARE PURGED OF CONTEMPT CHARGE

Cleveland, O., March 6.—(U.P.)—The Cuyahoga county court of appeals today reversed contempt of court sentences imposed by Common Pleas Judge Frederick P. Walther upon Louis B. Seltzer and Carlton K. Matson, editor and chief editorial writer of the Cleveland Press.

Judge Walther sentenced Seltzer and Matson to jail for 30 days each and fined them $500 each last summer after the defendants had written and published an editorial in the Press criticizing the judge's action towards horse racing.

JOBLESS GATHER IN MAJOR CITIES OF THE WORLD

PLAN GREAT MASS DEMONSTRATION AGAINST UNEMPLOYMENT

POLICE OVER THE WORLD MAKE CAREFUL PLANS TO PREVENT BLOODSHED, RIOTING

(By United Press)
Thousands of communists and other thousands of jobless gathered in major cities of the world today in a great mass demonstration against unemployment.

Already there have been scenes of violence attendant to this "Red Thursday," which is one of the most widespread displays against unemployment and of communism in history. Police over the world made careful plans to prevent bloodshed and rioting.

In Berlin last night a crowd in the Moabit district refused to obey an order banning open air meetings. The crowd attacked a policeman and reinforcements had to be called in to quell the disturbance. At Fort Worth, Tex., unemployed and workers clashed at the Bridgeport dam. Two hundred shots were fired and one man hurt.

Major centers of the world were geared to handle the great demonstration as quietly as possible. Police mobilized in New York, Chicago, London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna and other centers to prevent rioting. The precautions were greater in many instances than for the sporadic "May Day" demonstrations carried out for years.

London, March 6.—Sporadic outbreaks of violence marked communist demonstrations in London and several European capitals today as protests against unemployment were held throughout the world.

Several police were cut and beaten in London and demonstrators were clubbed or trampled by police horses when communists attempted a march to Mansion House against official orders.

Fighting in which half a dozen were injured also marked demonstrations in Vienna and police used their sticks to disperse communists in Berlin.

After listening to speeches at Tower Hill, the London communist demonstrators attempted to hold a parade but police barred their way.

The leaders then decided to march through the metropolitan district outside the financial district. They circled through the working district and returned to Tower Hill. There police blocked the streets leading to Mansion House.

Waterbury, Conn., March 6.—Four communists were arrested today when Rose Ross, 18-year-old New Haven communist, attempted to lead unemployed brass workers in an attack on city hall.

A crowd of several thousand, mostly men, had gathered before the city hall which was guarded by nearly 100 policemen armed with night sticks. At a given signal Miss Ross and John Borgnis of Naugatuck, the latter carrying a large American flag, rushed across the street shouting:

"Come on! Fight for your rights!"

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 6.—Fighting within the ranks of 5,000 communists who marched on the city-county building today as part of a world-wide protest against unemployment, brought police intervention and before the crowd was scattered, four men were in Mercy hospital, seriously injured, and many others were behind the bars of police station cells.

Trouble started, police said, when the two injured men, evidently not in sympathy with the paraders, shouted: "To hell with these guys! Why should they parade?"

The two men were attacked and rioting started. Police, using night sticks, soon scattered the crowd, which reassembled on another street and continued its march to the municipal building.

Firemen, holding hose, greeted them at the city-county building. Police officials said the hose would only be used in case there were further disorders.

Guns in Chicago Gangland Bark Again in Defiance of Law and Claim 2 More Victims

MEMBER OF GANG "400" AND HIS BODYGUARD SHOT

SHOTGUN PRESSED TO OBERTA'S
HEAD AND HIS LIFE
SNUFFED OUT

IN LAFAYETTE, IND., "ORLANDO
JACK" HORTON GIVEN HIS LAST RIDE

Chicago, March 6.—(U.P.)—Guns in Chicago's gangland, silent except for occasional splutterings since the St. Valentine's Day massacre of 1929, claimed two more victims last night, a member of the gang "400" and his bodyguard.

The shooting made the wife of the late notorious Tim Murphy a widow for a second time.

John "Dingbat" Oberta, who rose from an uneducated "bad boy" around the stock yards to an immaculate cane and spats night club figure with the advent of prohibition and its illegal beer traffic, was the chief victim.

Kidnapped with his bodyguard, Sam Malaga, Oberta was driven to a lonely highway west of Chicago Ridge, a suburb, in his own $4,000 Lincoln automobile, by enemies, supposed to be members of a rival run running gang headed by Joe Salts.

A shotgun apparently was pressed against the south side gangster's head and discharged. His bodyguard leaped from the machine, it seemed, and was riddled with bullets. He was found in a muddy ditch, strangely in the very position which Frank McErlane, "toughest" of the tough south side boys, had told police a few days ago to look for four assailants who entered his hospital room and tried to assassinate him.

Lafayette, Ind., March 6.—"Orlando Jack" Horton, whose bootleg partner, John Duffy, was Chicago's first gang "ride" victim, has taken his own last ride.

Horton's bullet-riddled body was found in a strawberry patch near here yesterday. It apparently had been tossed from a speeding automobile. A necklace of playing cards tattooed on his neck beneath his initials lead to identification of the former Chicago gangster who came to Indiana when gang warfare in the big city got too hot for him six years ago.

WHEAT PRICES ROCKET UPWARD ON CHICAGO BOARD

FOLLOWS REPORT THAT FARM
BOARD WAS TO ISSUE STATE-MENT TODAY

BUYING SUPPOSEDLY FOR STABILIZATION CORPORATION
CHECKS DECLINE

Chicago, March 6.—(U.P.)—A report that the farm board was to issue a statement at the close of the board of trade today sent wheat prices rocketing upward to above the previous close for the first time in several days. Buying supposedly for the stabilization corporation had checked the early decline and shorts hastened to cover on the Washington news. Corn remained depressed but oats rallied with wheat.

At the close wheat was 1-2 to 7-8c higher, corn was 1-4 to 1-8c lower and oats were 1-8c lower to 1-4c higher. Provisions were sharply lower.

Washington, March 6.—The Grain Stabilization Corporation will continue buying wheat at the market price and remove from the market whatever additional quantity is necessary to relieve the surplus and prevent price declines, Chairman Legge of the federal farm board announced today.

Legge issued the following statement:

"The Grain Stabilization Corporation will continue buying wheat at the market price and will remove from the market whatever additional quantity may be necessary to relieve the pressure and prevent any considerable decline in wheat prices.

"The farm board is prepared to advance to this farmers' organization whatever funds are necessary for this purpose.

"The Stabilization Corporation has been accused of speculating in the grain market. There is no foundation in fact for such statement. The Stabilization Corporation is prepared to accept and take delivery of all grain purchased on futures contracts and merchandise as market conditions will permit."

FARMER GETS BENEFITS FROM PROHIBITION LAW

SHARES EQUALLY WITH THE
WORKER AND INDUSTRIAL-
IST OF THE NATION

DID TAKE AWAY SOME OF FARM-
ERS' MARKETS, BUT GAVE
HIM SOME OTHERS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 6.—The farmer has been benefitted by prohibition as well as the worker and industrialist, a farm bloc congressman, Representative Oliver E. Burton, republican of Grand Forks, North Dakota, told the house judiciary committee today.

"Prohibition did take away some of our farm markets, but it gave us different markets. For instance, the growth of the near beer industry has caused our barley acreage to be about as large as it was before.

"We had a wheat surplus before prohibition as well as now," Burton said.

"We have had prohibition for 41 years," he said. "During this time, it has been clearly demonstrated that prohibition has brought lasting benefit to citizens of our state. It has increased the economic well being of our people, increased savings, decreased poverty and has made North Dakota a safe place to rear our children where the contaminating influence of strong drink has been curbed."

To substantiate this, Burton presented a statement of leading farmers, business men and professional men of his state.

Much corn sugar is going into the manufacture of illicit alcohol, Burton agreed under questioning by Rep. Burton, republican, New York, a wet.

But much of the enormous increase in production is being legitimately absorbed," Burton said.

Life saving and the diminution of religious prejudices were added to prohibition benefits in the testimony of Patrick H. Callahan, Louisville manufacturer, secretary of the Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition.

"Before prohibition," said Callahan, "I found that a great deal of the prevailing prejudices was due to the liquor problem, largely as a result of a vicious and insidious propaganda by the liquor people to play upon the fears and prejudices of Catholics."

To Construct Big Printing Plant in St. Paul Soon

VON TIRPITZ, GERMAN ADMIRAL, PASSES AWAY

NOTED SEA WARRIOR WAS FORMER
LORD HIGH ADMIRAL
OF TEUTON FLEET

WAS ONE OF GREATEST BELIEVERS IN ADVERTISING AND PROPAGANDA

By FREDERICK KUH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, March 6.—Alfred Von Tirpitz, former lord high admiral of the German fleet, died today. Germany's noted sea warrior died at Ebenhausen, near Berlin.

Death occurred at 2:30 A. M. today, from heart disease. The admiral had been resting in a sanitarium at Ebenhausen since the middle of last month, after an attack of bronchitis.

Although his attack was not considered extremely dangerous, it had resulted in a weakened heart condition.

Von Tirpitz would have been 81 years old on March 11. His death had not been expected.

Admiral Von Tirpitz's wife, who had been constantly at his bedside for the past three weeks, was with him when he died.

In one sense, Tirpitz was one of the world's greatest believers in advertising and propaganda. His replies to criticism took the form of flooding the country with avalanches of posters and pamphlets, inspiring the German people to believe that their destiny led to the sea.

As a consequence, Germany's naval forces had been built up to impressive size when the war broke.

At that time, Tirpitz's policy had been directed to heavier ships, and his program, although extensive, had little room for submarines. Therefore, in 1914, the German submarine fleet numbered scarcely a score of vessels.

Tirpitz was actually the father of the German pre-war navy, and carried measure after measure through a hostile parliament which more than doubled the strength of the fleet between the years 1901 and 1917.

Much criticism within his country was leveled against Tirpitz, and he was continually the subject of bitter comment from his enemies. His friendship with the kaiser, however, stood him in good stead, and when war broke out in 1914 he was considered one of the kaiser's closest advisers on the German program for a grand offensive on the sea.

Through influential friends he interested the kaiser in his project, and this was the beginning of an ascendancy over naval affairs in the German empire that led him to the highest command of the imperial fleet.

In 1907, Von Tirpitz was appointed minister of marine, and then began the work which reached its culmination in complete reorganization of the navy and a climax in what the world later termed the "ruthlessness" of submarine warfare.

Admiral Von Tirpitz made light of America's entrance into the war, declaring it "a phantom."

He scorned the suggestion of Von Bethmann-Hollweg that America might prove the stumbling block to German success.

Effectiveness of the German submarine campaign was soon indicated by allied shipping reports. Supplies, both of war material and food, for the nations arrayed against Germany, began to dwindle and British and French statesmen made no secret of the fact that if it continued, the populations of their countries would be in a critical condition.

After his resignation, the admiral renewed his efforts to undermine the milder officials of the German government. In a memorial he declared that his plans would have brought England to her knees in six months.

Until January, 1918, he held out for "annexation of Flanders" as a base for the German fleet, after the war was "won."

It was at this time that leaders of "Vaterland" party considered forcing his appointment as chancellor.

His appearance in the limelight too openly during the latter part of the war probably was the greatest political mistake of his career.

Previously, he had moved quietly behind the scenes, staging his propaganda from the cloak of his group of friends. He failed to win the chancellorship because he had become "too prominent" and had created too many enemies within the Reich.

It was a distinct blow to the aging admiral when the revolution of 1918 and subsequent events saw the smashing of the great fleet he had built and to the Reichstag.

MAN AND WOMAN TRAPPED ON
TOP FLOOR OF 5-STORY
BRICK STRUCTURE

THIRD VICTIM WAS CHILD SUFFOCATED AFTER REMOVAL
TO PENTHOUSE

Boston, March 6.—(U.P.)—Three persons are known to have perished and about 10 others were burned or injured in a four-alarm fire which destroyed an apartment hotel today.

A man and woman were trapped on the top floor of the five-story brick structure on Shawmut Avenue and burned to death. The third victim was a child, about three years old, who was suffocated after being removed to a penthouse on the roof of the building. None of the dead could be immediately identified.

Approximately 100 persons, representing 35 families, were asleep in the building when the fire broke out on the ground floor and spread rapidly to the roof.

A dozen occupants who had fled to the roof were taken over aerial ladders to safety as flames roared beneath. Three other persons trapped on the top of the structure were taken over a short ladder to an adjoining roof.

REVENGEFUL BOOTLEGGER, IN AMBUSH, KILLED MAX
GOLDEN, 42

LATTER WAS A WELL KNOWN
CITY

Minneapolis, March 6.—(U.P.)—Convicted a revengeful bootlegger shot him from ambush, police today were searching for two men who operated a still near Long Lake, Minn., in connection with the killing of Max Golden, 42, known liquor dealer and federal informer.

Prohibition agents today were said to have admitted Golden gave them information concerning the still which led to a raid. Although refusing to reveal the names of the still owners, police said they had threatened Golden's life after the raid.

The two suspects were said to have been seen near Maternity hospital shortly before Golden was killed by slugs from a shotgun as he entered his automobile. The liquor dealer had visited his wife in the hospital and was shot down by an enemy concealed in the tonneau of the automobile.

Two men who were arrested when the Long Lake still was raided several weeks ago were re-apprehended for questioning in the killing today. The owners of the liquor enterprise, however, had not been found.

LIQUOR SMUGGLERS AND PATROLMEN IN BORDER CLASH

El Paso, Texas, March 6.—(U.P.)—Liquor smugglers and United States border patrolmen clashed today in a thickly populated section of El Paso, two shots from the Mexican border.

Many shots were fired, after the band of smugglers opened fire on three patrolmen who were walking along the street. After the battle police found the body of a Mexican shot through the jaw beside the smugglers' car, but his companions had fled.

HEADON COLLISION OF CARS INJURES 3

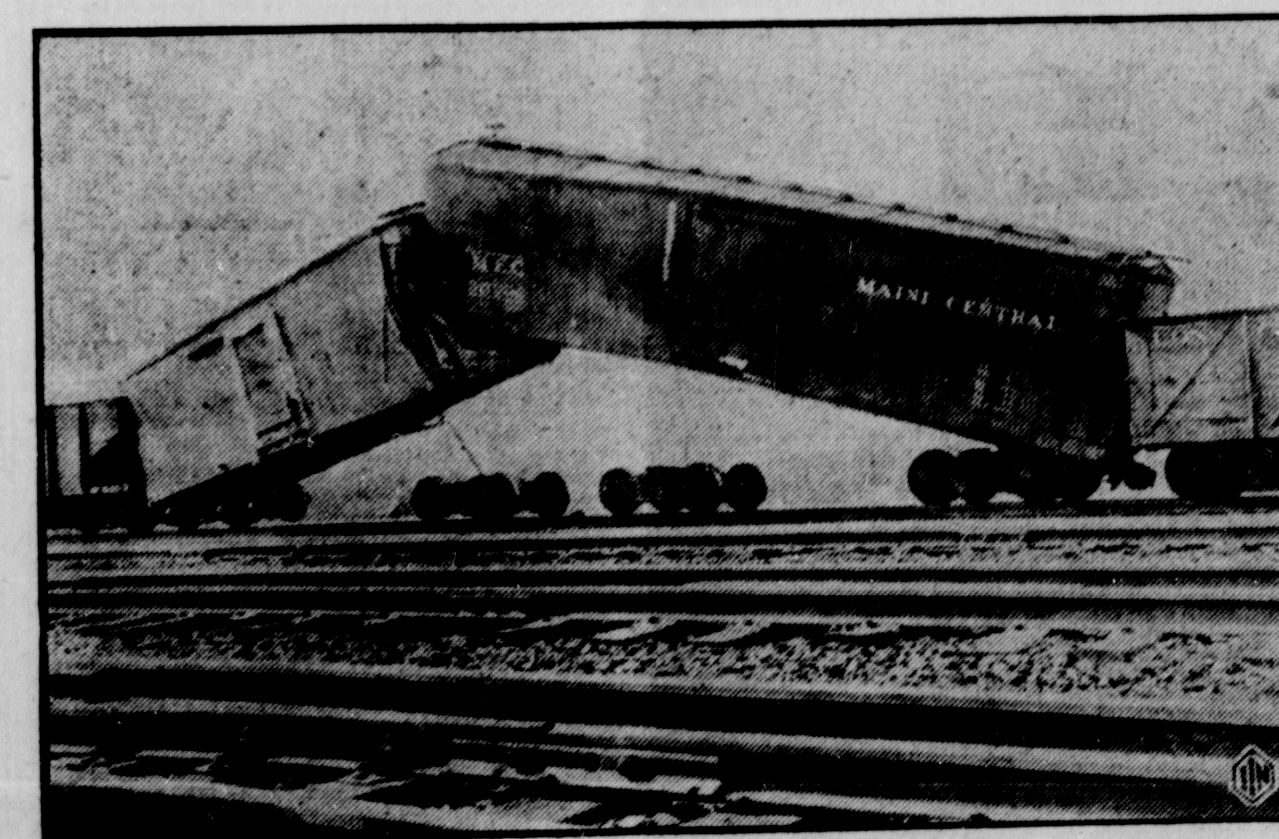

St. Paul, March 6.—(U.P.)—T. H. Hamilton, 45, of South St. Paul Park, was injured perhaps fatally and two passengers were hurt in a head-on automobile collision near St. Paul today. The others injured were H. Stay, a passenger with Hamilton, and Christ Vane, Minneapolis, driver of the other automobile.

which he had tried, throughout his career, to make the greatest in the world.

Like many others of the high command, he left Germany after the kaiser's fall, and went to Switzerland. Later, when events had quieted down and a more or less conservative government had been established in Germany, he returned.

As a man then 75, Von Tirpitz reappeared on the German political stage in 1924, when he was elected a delegate of the German national party to the Reichstag.

Leaping Box Cars Meet in Mid-Air

"The farm board is prepared to advance to this farmers' organization whatever funds are necessary for this purpose. The Stabilization Corporation has been accused of speculating in the grain market. There is no foundation in fact for such statement. The Stabilization Corporation is prepared to and expects to take delivery of all grain purchased on futures contracts and merchandise as market conditions will permit."

FARMER GETS BENEFITS FROM PROHIBITION LAW

SHARES EQUALLY WITH THE
WORKER AND INDUSTRIAL-
IST OF THE NATION

DID TAKE AWAY SOME OF FARM-
ERS' MARKETS, BUT GAVE
HIM SOME OTHERS

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, March 6.—The farmer has been benefitted by prohibition as well as the worker and industrialist, a farm bloc congressman, Representative Oliver B. Burnett, republican of Grand Forks, North Dakota, told the house judiciary committee today.

"Taking the stand on the second day of the dries' arguments before the committee, Burnett said:

"Prohibition did take away some of our farm markets, but it gave us different markets. For instance, the growth of the near beer industry has caused our barley acreage to be about as large as it was before."

"We had a wheat surplus before prohibition as well as now," Burnett said.

"We have had prohibition for 41 years," he said. "During this time, it has been clearly demonstrated that prohibition has brought lasting benefit to citizens of our state. It has increased the economic well being of our people, increased savings, decreased poverty and has made North Dakota a safe place to rear our children where the contaminating influence of strong drink has been curbed."

To substantiate this, Burnett presented a statement of leading farmers, business men and professional men of his state.

Much corn sugar is going into the manufacture of illicit alcohol, Burnett agreed under questioning by Rep. Burdick, republican, New York, a wet.

"But much of the enormous increase in production is being legitimately absorbed," Burnett said.

Life saving and the diminution of religious prejudices were added to prohibition benefits in the testimony of Patrick H. Callahan, Louisville manufacturer, secretary of the Association of Catholics Favoring Prohibition.

"Before prohibition," said Callahan, "I found that a great deal of the prevailing prejudices was due to the liquor problem, largely as a result of a vicious and insidious propaganda by the liquor people to play upon the fears and prejudices of Catholics."

10 OTHERS ARE INJURED IN BLAZE TODAY

MAN AND WOMAN TRAPPED ON
TOP FLOOR OF 5-STORY
BRICK STRUCTURE

THIRD VICTIM WAS CHILD SUFFOCATED AFTER REMOVAL
TO PENTHOUSE

Boston, March 6.—(U.P.)—Three persons are known to have perished and about 10 others were burned or injured in a four-alarm fire which destroyed an apartment hotel today.

A man and woman were trapped on the top floor of the five-story brick structure on Shawmut Avenue and burned to death. The third victim was a child, about three years old, who was suffocated after being removed to a penthouse on the roof of the building. None of the dead could be immediately identified.

Approximately 100 persons, representing 35 families, were asleep in the building when the fire broke out on the ground floor and spread rapidly to the roof.

A dozen occupants who had fled to the roof were taken over aerial ladders to safety as flames roared beneath. Three other persons trapped on the top of the structure were taken over a short ladder to an adjoining roof.

REVENGEFUL BOOTLEGGER, IN

LATTER WAS A WELL KNOWN

Minneapolis, March 6.—(U.P.)—Convinced a revengeful bootlegger shot him from ambush, police today were searching for two men who operated a still near Long Lake, Minn., in connection with the killing of Max Golden, 42, known liquor dealer and federal informer.

Prohibition agents today were said to have admitted Golden gave them information concerning the still which led to a raid. Although refusing to reveal the names of the still owners, police said they had threatened Golden's life after the raid.

The two suspects were said to have been seen near Maternity hospital shortly before Golden was killed by slugs from a shotgun as he entered his automobile. The liquor dealer had visited his wife in the hospital and was shot down by an enemy concealed in the tonneau of the automobile.

Two men who were arrested when the Long Lake still was raided several weeks ago were re-apprehended for questioning in the killing today. The owners of the liquor enterprise, however, had not been found.

Secretary A. L. Hoffman of the Shakespeare Gold Mining Co. has returned from Webbwood, Ont., where he has spent some time. He stated today that reports sent out from there regarding the output were not in the least exaggerated.

Rev. Richard Brown preached his last sermon as pastor of the First Congregational church last night. He has been in Brainerd something over a year and during that time has made many friends. He has not decided where he will locate as yet, but may decide to take up his permanent residence out west.

County Auditor Anton Mahlum is busy these days working on the regular February settlement which will include a statement of the taxes collected and its disbursements to the various funds of Crow Wing county. Taxes collected throughout the county is estimated will be about $3,000 less than last year. One reason for this is thought to be on account of the reduction of something like $4,000

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

March 6, 1905

Secretary A. L. Hoffman of the Shakespeare Gold Mining Co. has returned from Webbwood, Ont., where he has spent some time. He stated today that reports sent out from there regarding the output were not in the least exaggerated.

Rev. Richard Brown preached his last sermon as pastor of the First Congregational church last night. He has been in Brainerd something over a year and during that time has made many friends. He has not decided where he will locate as yet, but may decide to take up his permanent residence out west.

County Auditor Anton Mahlum is busy these days working on the regular February settlement which will include a statement of the taxes collected and its disbursements to the various funds of Crow Wing county. Taxes collected throughout the county it is estimated will be about $3,000 less than last year. One reason for this is thought to be on account of the reduction of something like $4,000 made in the assessment of the Brainerd Lumber Company.

Mrs. Henry Theviot left for St. Paul this afternoon to attend the state meeting of the W. R. C. Mrs. J. A. Wilson and Mrs. T. E. Smith will go down tomorrow night.

A party consisting of Rev. Richard Brown and wife, Mrs. Bert Parker, Mrs. F. J. Murphy, Fred Luken, W. J. Weddell, Judge S. F. Alderman, John Clarke and Miss Bane will leave tomorrow night for Oregon.

G. W. Healey was among those who went down to St. Paul today to attend the G. A. R. state encampment.

There will be a 15 cent supper tomorrow night at the St. Paul Episcopal guild hall.

THE KNOT HOLE

Vol. 4 THURSDAY, MARCH 6, 1930 No. 4

For the past four months the Knothole has not been published. But owing to the fact that many people are asking for the small but important pointers we submit in this publication, we are going back to press today.

Bill, the yardman, says, “Chicago sure must be a tough city; if it wasn't how could they make MULE-HIDE so much tougher than any other roofing?”

In order to get the big things off our mind first, we want to remind you about our easy payment plan on remodeling your old home or building a new one. Our service now includes Sickness, Accident and Life Insurance at a very small cost while you are paying for your home. Come in and ask us about it.

What an ideal time to do inside remodeling. Labor plentiful, and easy to secure. Plenty of time to plan and supervise it. Plenty of the best material at our yard.

If you think there is no chance for world peace, consider the Chicago firm of O'Connor & Goldberg.

As you all know, this is only the first part of March; don't let that coal bin get too low. Better order a load of Standard Coal today.

A small jack will lift a car but it takes lots of Jack to keep it up.

LOCAL SUNDAY SCHOOL ON STATE PROGRAM

Names of the ten Sunday schools, selected for special study and development were announced today by the Minnesota Council of Religious Education in St. Paul.

The schools were selected by the board of religious education of the council. R. G. Fletcher, chairman of the board, explained that the project was part of the general policy of the Council to assist the church schools of the state in their efforts to make the schools more effective.

"The schools are to be scored according to a standard approved by the International Council of Religious Education, which represents 41 denominations," he said. "A study will be made of present conditions in the schools, and recommendations outlined for their improvement. Members of the board will keep in touch with the schools through the year to assist in the program outlined, and at the end of the year, a check will be made to ascertain the progress that has been made."

"On the basis of the study of these schools, recommendations will be made to all church schools in the state through state and county conventions and institutes. The object is not merely to assist a select group of schools but to aid in making the work of all church schools in the state more effective."

The schools include many different types, ranging in enrollment from less than 100 to more than 700 and from the two room school to the fully departmentalized school.

The ten schools follow: Benson, Pilgrim Parish. Brainerd, First Congregational. Chisholm, Community Church Sunday School.

Joan Crawford Girl of Today

A radical change has been effected in the styles worn by the girls of today with those of a few years ago—but a still more decided difference is noticed in the bearing and manner of the modern maidens than in the girls of grandmother's time.

The blushing, modest girl who had only to look forward to the time when some suitor would take her off her father's hands has disappeared and in her place has emerged the present-day type who can take her place in the keen competition of the times, whether she deals with the butcher or baker or enters the game of business.

Joan Crawford, Metro-Goldwyn.

BRAINERD MAN IS COMMENDED

Following Inspection of His Station and Territory by Lieut. T. R. Wirth

Chief Torpedoman George D. Dickert, U. S. N., the recruiting officer for the Navy in the central counties of Minnesota, with headquarters at the postoffice in Brainerd, was commended today following the inspection of his station and territory by Lieutenant T. R. Wirth, U. S. N., the officer in charge of recruiting for the Navy for the states of Minnesota and North Dakota.

"Chief Torpedoman Dickert has maintained an excellent record for recruiting the highest type of men from his territory," Lieutenant Wirth said. "An inspection of his office and territory has revealed the same high attention to duty that has been characterized in the results he has obtained in interesting the right type of American youth in the naval service."

"It is not alone sufficient that Navy recruiters enlist such fine boys as Robert Chirhart, John Sbieja, Gerald Shrock, Vernon White, Stanford Murcys, Alfred Van Horrick and Joseph Young, all of whom Dickert has enlisted from this territory in the past three months. Chief petty officers chosen for recruiting duty must also serve as representatives of their service, and as such, report to the citizens of their communities on the activities of the Navy, the country supports. Chief Torpedoman Dickert's relations with the residents of his territory are very cordial. His district stands as high as any in the northwest," Lieutenant Wirth concluded.

Chief Torpedoman Dickert has been in charge of the Brainerd district for 18 months, succeeding Chief Boatwain Mate George Kelly.

Mayer star, reveals just such a girl in her first all-talking picture, "Untamed," showing at the Paramount tonight and Friday, and although she has as feminine a hairdress and as softly moulded a figure as the girls of the past, there is a keenness in her eyes and a firm sureness to her step and actions.

Maple Grove School Report

Report for month ending February 28, 1930 at Maple Grove school. The teacher is Miss Alice I. Olson.

The enrollment for the month was 14 and the percentage of attendance 75. The irregular attendance was due to sickness. Pupils who have been neither absent nor tardy this month are: Leonard Aarhus, Helen Bower, Hazel Bower, Anna Senn and Doris Witte. Anna Senn and Doris Witte have had perfect attendance for the year.

Those whose names appear on the A honor roll are: Ann Senn, Hazel Bower, Leonard Aarhus, Mervin Aarhus, Doris Witte, Helen Bower and Lillian Rasmussen. Those on the B honor roll are: Dorothy Bower and William Senn.

The third grade has made illustrated patriotic booklets for February, including biographies and stories of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. The fifth grade has completed interesting booklets on wheat, corn, and cotton; while the seventh grade are working out review booklets of Minnesota.

We found that a higher percentage in spelling was attained for the month when we tried to make a home run on our baseball diamonds, with a gold star for every 100 percent we made. Many were successful.

The reading classes have been competing keenly in their attempts to reach the top of the stairs first and incidentally reading well. A good recitation gives the privilege of climbing Doris Witte are at the top and others one step. Leonard Aarhus and are close behind.

The language classes are eagerly looking for signs of spring. Many interesting items and specimens are posted by them on the bulletin board, which show that winter is almost over.

We are participating in a Clean Hands Health campaign. Each one is awarded a gold star for a week's perfect record, and a Health Guard button for a four week record. We believe that by keeping ourselves clean we are helping ourselves, our families, our school and our country.

We are also playing a breakfast game. If two-thirds of the children eat a hot cooked cereal at least three mornings a week for four weeks, the tiful picture by the Cream of Wheat Company. We believe that a hot, cooked cereal for breakfast is essential to good health and to good work at school. May we have the parents' cooperation in our campaigns.

St. Valentine's Day was celebrated by an hours enjoyment and the distribution of the days missives. These not only included remembrances to each other but contributions to the starving children of Porto Rico. The Valentine school committee express their appreciation for the gift.

We are anxious to have parents, especially, visit us.

Shower of Fish
Many freaks of weather have been recorded, but it is doubtful if the experience of a man at Glencoe, Rhodessa, has been equaled. He awoke recently to find that live fish had been raining on his property during the night, a tennis court being covered with small silver fish. As the nearest sheet of water is three miles away, the only solution seems to be that a whirlwind rose in the night and carried the fish on their queer journey.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 percent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. Charles Axelson, of 1809 2nd St. South, Minneapolis, Minn., says: "I was troubled with a disordered stomach and loss of appetite. Tanlac put new life in me. I've put on 11 lbs. and feel as well as I ever did in my life!"

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper form, eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Joan Crawford Girl of Today

A radical change has been effected in the styles worn by the girls of today with those of a few years ago—but a still more decided difference is noticed in the bearing and manner of the modern maidens than in the girls of grandmother's time.

The blushing, modest girl who had only to look forward to the time when some suitor would take her off her father's hands has disappeared and in her place has emerged the present-day type who can take her place in the keen competition of the times, whether she deals with the butcher or baker or enters the game of business.

BRAINERD MAN IS COMMENDED

Following Inspection of His Station and Territory by Lieut. T. R. Wirth

Chief Torpedoman George D. Dickertoff, U. S. N., the recruiting officer for the Navy in the central counties of Minnesota, with headquarters at the postoffice in Brainerd, was commended today following the inspection of his station and territory by Lieutenant T. R. Wirth, U. S. N., the officer in charge of recruiting for the Navy for the states of Minnesota and North Dakota.

"Chief Torpedoman Dickertoff has maintained an excellent record for recruiting the highest type of men from his territory," Lieutenant Wirth said. "An inspection of his office and territory has revealed the same high attention to duty that has been characterized in the results he has obtained in interesting the right type of American youth in the naval service."

"It is not alone sufficient that Navy recruits enlist such fine boys as Robert Chirhart, John Sbieja, Gerald Shrock, Vernon White, Stanford Marcy, Alfred Van Horrick and Joseph Young, all of whom Dickertoff has enlisted from this territory in the past three months. Chief petty officers chosen for recruiting duty must also serve as representatives of their service, and, as such, report to the citizens of their communities on the activities of the Navy, the country supports. Chief Torpedoman Dickertoff's relations with the residents of his territory are very cordial. His district stands as high as any in the northwest," Lieutenant Wirth concluded.

Chief Torpedoman Dickertoff has been in charge of the Brainerd district for 18 months, succeeding Chief Boatswain Mate George Kelly.

Mayer star, reveals just such a girl in her first all-talking picture, "Untamed," showing at the Paramount tonight and Friday, and although she has as feminine a hairdress and as softly moulded a figure as the girls of the past, there is a keenness in her eyes and a firm sureness to her step and actions.

Maple Grove School Report

Report for month ending February 28, 1930 at Maple Grove school. The teacher is Miss Alice I. Olson.

The enrollment for the month was 14 and the percentage of attendance 75. The irregular attendance was due to sickness. Pupils who have been neither absent nor tardy this month are: Leonard Aarhus, Helen Bower, Hazel Bower, Anna Senn and Doris Witte. Anna Senn and Doris Witte have had perfect attendance for the year.

Those whose names appear on the A honor roll are: Ann Senn, Hazel Bower, Leonard Aarhus, Mervin Aarhus, Doris Witte, Helen Bower and Lillian Rasmussen. Those on the B honor roll are: Dorothy Bower and William Senn.

The third grade has made illustrated patriotic booklets for February, including biographies and stories of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. The fifth grade has completed interesting booklets on wheat, corn, and cotton; while the seventh grade are working out review booklets of Minnesota.

We found that a higher percentage in spelling was attained for the month when we tried to make a home run on our baseball diamonds, with a gold star for every 100 percent we made. Many were successful.

The reading classes have been competing keenly in their attempts to reach the top of the stairs first and incidentally reading well. A good recitation gives the privilege of climbing Doris Witte are at the top and others are one step. Leonard Aarhus and are close behind.

The language classes are eagerly looking for signs of spring. Many interesting items and specimens are posted by them on the bulletin board, which show that winter is almost over.

We are participating in a Clean Hands Health campaign. Each one is awarded a gold star for a week's perfect record, and a Health Guard button for a four week record. We believe that by keeping ourselves clean we are helping ourselves, our families, our school and our country.

We are also playing a breakfast game. If two-thirds of the children eat a hot cooked cereal at least three school will be presented with a breakfast a week for four weeks, the tiful picture by the Cream of Wheat Company. We believe that a hot, cooked cereal for breakfast is essential to good health and to good work at school. May we have the parents' cooperation in our campaigns.

St. Valentine's Day was celebrated by an hours enjoyment and the distribution of the days missives. These not only included remembrances to each other but contributions to the starving children of Porto Rico. The Valentine school committee express their appreciation for the gift.

We are anxious to have parents, especially, visit us.

Shower of Fish

Many freaks of weather have been recorded, but it is doubtful if the experience of a man at Glencoe, Rhodessa, has been equaled. He awoke recently to find that live fish had been raining on his property during the night, a tennis court being covered with small silver fish. As the nearest sheet of water is three miles away, the only solution seems to be that a whirlwind rose in the night and carried the fish on their queer journey.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 percent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing.

Mr. Charles Axelson, of 1809 2nd St. South, Minneapolis, Minn., says: "I was troubled with a disordered stomach and loss of appetite. Tanlac put new life in me. I've put on 11 lbs. and feel as well as I ever did in my life!"

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

"FIRST A SHADOW,
then a sorrow"

(Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, 1807-1882)

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper form, eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Unemployment Problem

THE unemployment problem is not a local, state or national problem, confined to America alone, but it is international in scope, as one witnesses the demonstrations made by those without work.

Here in America changes in machinery and other equipment, in manufacturing methods, in marketing and salesmanship, in varying tastes and desires, have produced sudden changes in the field of labor. Whole trades and lines of business have at times been swept into the discard.

Labor, especially the unorganized kind, has been sorely put trying to adapt itself to the changes. As machinery and methods improve, the human labor element becomes less of a factor. Fewer men do many times the work accomplished previously by larger groups. The man who is ousted has a hard time adjusting himself to conditions. And he and his family must live in the period of readjustment.

Shifting prices and varying demand has lessened coal consumption in England and as a result the miners work for low wages, are employed irregularly and many unemployed subsist on a dole system.

Conditions have never been as hard in America as in many European countries, due to our putting up the fences against unlimited immigration.

America has an extensive program of public works and this should be put into effect to partially relieve unemployment.

One result of the economic movement may be an increase in farming. Many unable to exist in the industrial world will have to go back to the land which at least offers subsistence.

Hoover Had a Busy Year

ON March 4 President Hoover completed his first year in the presidential chair and it has been a very busy one with many projects initiated, many taking new ground. He fell heir to many knotty problems and has acquired a crop of new ones too.

Farm relief, tariff, prohibition, waterways, railway consolidations, are some of the things that require solution. In the foreign field we have naval disarmament, upbuilding of diplomatic and consular service, etc.

His idea of appointing commissions to ascertain facts and suggest remedies is nothing new. Other presidents have done the same thing. Among the commissions recently named are:

The law enforcement commission which has made a partial report and is examining all forms of law violations including prohibition law violations and will suggest remedies.

A commission to set a policy regarding public lands.

One studying measures for oil conservation.

Another studying means of aiding child welfare work.

One taking up housing congestion and other problems.

A commission to study ways of business rehabilitation.

And a recent commission to investigate conditions in Haiti and to recommend a policy there.

Given widespread publicity is every action of the Federal Farm Board which is seeking to preserve the farmers' markets.

Indian Battles in Crow Wing County

JUDGE L. B. KINDER gave a most interesting address on Indian battles in Crow Wing county at the recent meeting of the Rotarians. As a historian of the Crow Wing County Historical society, Judge Kinder has delved into the past and accumulated much material shedding new light on the days when this section was in primeval glory.

Who would have thought that history preserved a record of this region dating back to the days when the Boston tea party had just been given on the New England coast. The "Battle of Crow Wing," one of the greatest in Indian lore, was fought that year in our county. And it was followed by one in 1800 designated the "Battle of Cross Lake."

As explained by Judge Kinder, the Indian, like the Mexican of later days, had his fights and revolutions when the weather was propitious. Few fights occurred in the winter or late fall.

Up-Ended by Strong March Wind

This army tri-motored monoplane as it up-ended on its nose when a gust of wind hit it as it was running across the field to its hangar. Pilot Newton Longfellow was piloting it from Washington, D. C., and six enlisted men who were passengers were slightly shaken from the shock. (International Newsreel)

"MASTER of MONEY" BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

WEALTHY Altn Brenaway is in love with Shirley Dane, beautiful, society girl, who is secretly engaged to Roger Kelton. Alan, learning that Roger is to marry Shirley, lends him $500,000. He takes as collateral shares in a Macedonia development believed worthless. After Shirley and Roger are married, Shirley, ignorant of the loan, is incensed when Roger tells her Alan is trying to force him to go to Macedonia. Receiving a tip from Cynaz, shady financier, Roger visions the reduction of his indebtedness to Alan. Jealous of Alan, Roger comes to the conclusion the loan was made because of Shirley. When Alan warns Shirley of her extravagance, she tells of her investment in Corto Bellas stock. Roger offers Alan $50,000 and Alan wonders where the money is to come from. Roger resents Alan's probing into his "personal" affairs. Next day, the stock drops considerably. That night Shirley learns that Roger has lost all her inheritance. Roger tells Shirley Alan made the loan to win her and get rid of him. Shirley goes to pay her "debt" to Alan. Alan, furious at her insinuation, orders Shirley from his home, but her car is out of commission. She stays and he spends the night in the car. Next day, Shirley receives a note from Roger telling of his intention to divorce her, naming Alan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV.

"Oh, I can't believe you mean that," protested the woman.

"You'll need me. I tell you as sure as I stand here you'll need me. You haven't had any experience—nor has Mr. Brenaway. I should say, though he's one of the nicest gentlemen that ever walked. You don't know how it is when you go to hotels, they always know unless—"

"Alice!" interrupted Shirley, her voice like the lash of a whip. "I appreciate your desire to help me but I'm sorry that I have no further need for your services after you have done what I have just told you."

"Oh, very well," said Alice, shrugging her shoulders. "I can only say I'm sorry, and you'll be sorry too, when you two leave here together."

Shirley sat still and heard the woman go outside and speak to Carter. The sense of outrage was so great that she dared not move. When she heard the car start towards the barn, she relaxed.

"Oh, my God!" She pressed her hands over her face while dry sobs shook her. For the moment she was almost frightened. Everything that she had believed solid and permanent seemed to have been destroyed. She had envisaged poverty in a vague way—impersonal poverty where one was bored and had to do without things. But taste was a fundamental reality to her.

In a few minutes Alice with nothing but friendly, even kindly intentions, had shown her that the edifice of society in which she had wholeheartedly believed was founded on shifting sand.

Alice who believed that she was conducting a furtive intrigue with Alan and had been accidentally found out by her husband—Alice had revealed the existence of a hideous comradeship that shocked her beyond her own belief.

Would the world take Alice's view of her? Would the world think that she and Alan had been furtive lovers? At the thought the fighting instinct welled up in her. Alan should not be made the object of Alice's sympathy if any action of hers could prevent it. She knew a moment of wild anger against Roger—he felt an overpowering desire to strike at him, to beat him down.

She picked up his letter and read it yet again. This time the style impressed her. It was stilted and artificial and, inausurably pompous. She had a fleeting vision of him crying in her sitting-room—blubbering like a frightened child. "I'll frighten him again!" she exclaimed suddenly. "I'll let him see that if he is going to drag Alan into the mire he shall go to prison. He will not dare to go on with the divorce then."

She began to feel her strength of will returning, felt that she was beginning to steer her own course instead of drifting with the tide. She would have to tell Alan, of course, the moment she saw him and put him on his guard. She wished he would come back. As she formed the wish she heard footsteps.

She ran to the window. It was

Mrs. Downey, the farmer's wife, who looked after the cottage for Alan.

Paradoxically, if Alan had been with her she would never have given a second thought to Mrs. Downey. As it was, alone in the cottage, she was conscious of a certain embarrassment.

"Good morning," You're Mrs. Downey, aren't you? she said. "I'm Mrs. Kelton. My car broke down last night and Mr. Brenaway very kindly put me up."

She felt the woman's shrewd scrutiny, and knew that she regarded all city people with a certain suspiciousness.

"Oh," said Mrs. Downey, and hobbled unconcernedly into the kitchen.

Shirley went out into the road to wait for Alan.

Shirley had waited no more than a minute when she saw Alan rounding the bend in the road some hundred yards away. Of a sudden, fear sized her, that odd, unreasoning fear of his anger that she had felt before. And because she was afraid of those unknown, elemental forces in him she ran to meet him.

Alan had caught sight of her and wondered why she was waiting in the road. When she began to run it meant one thing only to him—Shirley in trouble. All other thought of her was scattered as he sprinted forward to meet her.

"Hallo, what's the matter?" he shouted, and before she could answer they were abreast.

Shirley thrust Roger's letter at him. She was breathless, more with excitement than with the short run.

"Roger sent me this by a servant," she gasped out. "All the servants know about it." She kept her eyes on his face while he read the letter. There was a faint flicker of the eyebrows, but beyond that no sign of what he felt.

He folded the letter, returned it to its envelope and gave it back to her. His deliberateness alarmed her afresh.

"Alan, before you say anything, let me speak. I'm dreadfully sorry, but I—"

He waved her apology aside. He smiled and she could not fathom the smile.

"I don't want to say anything offensive, Shirley, but wouldn't it be rather a good riddance?" The question was so utterly unexpected that for the moment she could not answer.

"I—that hardly seems to the point—of course I've finished with him in any sense that matters—especially after this."

He had begun to walk in the direction of the cottage and she was walking by his side.

"Why be indignant with him for writing that letter, Shirley?" asked Alan. "It's very natural behavior on his part."

"But—he has no cause for—"

"Quit so. But he thinks he has. And as far as I can see he has a perfectly good case legally."

Somehow they were missing the point. They walked on a dozen or more paces, while Shirley struggled for words to express what she was feeling.

BIG TEN TRACK AND FIELD MEET AT MINNEAPOLIS

APPROXIMATELY 250 ATHLETES, INCLUDING 3 CHAMPIONS OF LAST YEAR, TO CONTEST

TRIAL HEATS GET UNDER WAY FRIDAY NIGHT, FINALS ARE SCHEDULED SATURDAY

Minneapolis, Minn., March 6.—(U.P.)—Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois appear outstanding title contenders today as Big Ten track and field teams prepared to assemble tomorrow for the 20th annual conference indoor meet.

Approximately 210 athletes, including three champions of last year, will compete in the two-day competition. The trial heats get under way Friday night with the finals scheduled for Saturday.

Only recently re-instated in the conference after the trouble regarding proselytizing of athletics, Iowa finds itself an outstanding favorite because of a balanced team, led by Henry Canby, the pole vaulter, and Edward Gordon, negro broad jumper, two of the Big Ten's foremost athletes. Either of these men is a sure point winner.

The three men who won conference titles last year—George Simpson, Ohio State sprinter; Orval Magtin, Purdue middle distance man; and Harold Hayden, Chicago high hurdler—doubtless will find it difficult to retain their titles.

Simpson, in particular, has a real task on his hands. He must meet such men as Eddie Tolan, the flashy Michigan negro; Zach Ford, Northwestern, who recently beat Simpson twice in a meet at Evanston; Norman Root, Chicago; John Hass, Minnesota; and Judd Timm, Illinois, all of whom are hard to beat.

In the half mile, Martin, to retain his title, must defeat Jack Mowton, the Iowan; Dave Letts, Chicago, and Vern Goldsworthy of Wisconsin.

George Saling of Iowa figures to make it hard for Hayden to again win the 70-yard hurdle title. Rodgers of Illinois and Hess and Zeise of Wisconsin figure to be among the point scorers.

Doubtless the pole vault will resolve itself into a duel between Canby, Iowa, and Tom Warne of Northwestern. Canby holds the conference's indoor record from a dirt runway but Warne has beaten him at times.

Gordon appears almost a cinch in the broad jump, a recent addition to the indoor meet. He was a member of the last Olympic team and is capable of jumping 24 feet.

Davidson, a red-haired Wisconsin quarter miler, is favored in this event, and his strongest competition likely will come from Ferguson of Iowa; the Seymour twins of Michigan; and Strathairn, Ohio State's best best.

Gordon and Cochrane of Iowa; Carr of Illinois, and Shaw, of Wisconsin, doubtless will stage real competition for the high jump title, while Weaver of Chicago and Behr, Wisconsin, figure to fight for the shot put title against Roberts, Iowa; Todd, Indiana, and Barrett, Ohio State.

TOURNEY TICKETS ON SALE TOMORROW

Tickets for the district basketball tournament which opens here Friday evening at the Washington high school gymnasium will go on sale Friday noon at the Service News, 214 S. 6th street.

BIG TEN TRACK AND FIELD MEET AT MINNEAPOLIS

APPROXIMATELY 250 ATHLETES, INCLUDING 3 CHAMPIONS OF LAST YEAR, TO CONTEST

TRIAL HEATS GET UNDER WAY FRIDAY NIGHT, FINALS ARE SCHEDULED SATURDAY

Minneapolis, Minn., March 6.—(U.P.)—Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois appear outstanding title contenders today as Big Ten track and field teams prepared to assemble tomorrow for the 20th annual conference indoor meet. Approximately 250 athletes, including three champions of last year, will compete in the two-day competition. The trial heats get under way Friday night with the finals scheduled for Saturday.

Only recently re-instated in the conference after the trouble regarding proselytizing of athletics, Iowa finds itself an outstanding favorite because of a balanced team, led by Henry Canby, the pole vaulter, and Edward Gordon, negro broad jumper, two of the Big Ten's foremost athletes. Either of these men is a sure point winner.

The three men who won conference titles last year—George Simpson, Ohio State sprinter; Orval Magtin, Purdue middle distance man; and Harold Hayden, Chicago high hurdler—doubtless will find it difficult to retain their titles.

Simpson, in particular, has a real task on his hands. He must meet such men as Eddie Tolan, the flashy Michigan negro; Zach Ford, Northwestern, who recently beat Simpson twice in a meet at Evanston; Norman Root, Chicago; John Hass, Minnesota; and Judd Timm, Illinois, all of whom are hard to beat.

In the half mile, Martin, to retain his title, must defeat Jack Mowton,

the Iowan; Dave Letts, Chicago, and Vern Goldsworthy of Wisconsin.

George Saling of Iowa figures to make it hard for Hayden to again win the 70-yard hurdle title. Rodgers of Illinois and Hess and Zeise of Wisconsin figure to be among the point scorers.

Doubtless the pole vault will resolve itself into a duel between Canby, Iowa, and Tom Warne of Northwestern. Canby holds the conference's indoor record from a dirt runway but Warne has beaten him at times.

Gordon appears almost a cinch in the broad jump, a recent addition to the indoor meet. He was a member of the last Olympic team and is capable of jumping 24 feet.

Dayidson, a red-haired Wisconsin quarter miler, is favored in this event, and his strongest competition likely will come from Ferguson of Iowa; the Seymour twins of Michigan; and Strather, Ohio State's best best.

Gordon and Cochrane of Iowa; Carr of Illinois, and Shaw, of Wisconsin, doubtless will stage real competition for the high jump title, while Weaver of Chicago and Behr, Wisconsin, figure to fight for the shot put title against Roberts, Iowa; Todd, Indiana, and Barrett, Ohio State.

"MASTER of MONEY" BY ROY VICKERS

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

WEALTHY Alin Brenaway is in love with Shirley Dane, beautiful, society girl, who is secretly engaged to Roger Kelton. Alan, learning that Roger is to marry Shirley, lends him $500,000. He takes as collateral shares in a Macedonia development believed worthless. After Shirley and Roger are married, Shirley, ignorant of the loan, is incensed when Roger tells her Alan is trying to force him to go to Macedonia. Receiving a tip from Cynaz, shady financier, Roger visions the reduction of his indebtedness to Alan. Jealous of Alan, Roger comes to the conclusion the loan was made because of Shirley. When Alan warns Shirley of her extravagance, she tells of her investment in Corto Bellas stock. Roger offers Alan $50,000 and Alan wonders where the money is to come from. Roger resents Alan's probing into his "personal" affairs. Next day, the stock drops considerably. That night Shirley learns that Roger has lost all her inheritance. Roger tells Shirley Alan made the loan to win her and get rid of him. Shirley goes to pay her "debt" to Alan. Alan, furious at her insinuation, orders Shirley from his home, but her car is out of commission. She stays and he spends the night in the car. Next day, Shirley receives a note from Roger telling of his intention to divorce her, naming Alan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIV.
O H, I can't believe you mean that," protested the woman. "You'll need me. I tell you as sure as I stand here you'll need me. You haven't had any experience—nor has Mr. Brenaway. I should say, though he's one of the nicest gentlemen that ever walked. You don't know how it is when you go to hotels, they always know unless—"

"Alice!" interrupted Shirley, her voice like the lash of a whip. "I appreciate your desire to help me but I'm sorry that I have no further need for your services after you have done what I have just told you."

"Oh, very well!" said Alice, shrugging her shoulders. "I can only say I'm sorry, and you'll be sorry too, when you two leave here together."

Shirley sat still and heard the woman go outside and speak to Carter. The sense of outrage was so great that she dared not move. When she heard the car start towards the barn, she relaxed.

"Oh, my God!" She pressed her hands over her face while dry sobs shook her. For the moment she was almost frightened. Everything that she had believed solid and permanent seemed to have been destroyed. She had envisaged poverty in a vague way—impersonal poverty where one was bored and had to do without things. But caste was a fundamental reality to her.

In a few minutes Alice with nothing but friendly, even kindly intentions, had shown her that the edifice of society in which she had wholeheartedly believed was founded on shifting sand.

Alice who believed that she was conducting a furtive intrigue with Alan and had been accidentally found out by her husband—Alice had revealed the existence of a hideous comradeship that shocked her beyond her own belief.

Would the world take Alice's view of her? Would the world think that she and Alan had been furtive lovers? At the thought the fighting instinct welled up in her. Alan should not be made the object of hers could prevent it. She knew a moment of wild anger against Roger—he felt an overpowering desire to strike at him, to beat him down.

She picked up his letter and read it yet again. This time the style impressed her. It was stilted and artificial and insufferably pompous. She had a fleeting vision of him crying in his sitting-room—blubbering like a frightened child. "I'll frighten him again!" she exclaimed suddenly. "I'll let him see that if he is going to drag Alan into the mire he shall go to prison. He will not dare to go on with the divorce then."

She began to feel her strength of will returning, felt that she was beginning to steer her own course instead of drifting with the tide. She would have to tell Alan, of course, the moment she saw him and put him on his guard. She wished he would come back. As she formed the wish she heard footsteps.

She ran to the window. It was

"I'm not thinking about my side of it," she floundered. "But don't you see I—he—I'm making you a co-respondent."

He laughed and every nerve in her body winced.

"That won't trouble me in the least," he assured her. "If you're really worried about that, please forget it."

Her bewilderment grew. His attitude was utterly incomprehensible. She could not believe that he was genuinely indifferent. "We are getting at cross-purposes," she faltered. "I've been thinking ever since I got the letter. You've got the whip-hand. You can stop him from bringing this action."

Alan frowned.

"By suing him for the money he owes me?" he challenged. "No, Shirley, I lent him the money for a definite purpose, as you know, and I'm not going back on it."

"No, you needn't sue him. I wasn't thinking of that. But if you were to see him and tell him that he has no cause for divorce, tell him he must not bring the action—he's afraid of you, Alan."

"Not because he owes me money."

"No, perhaps not because of that, but—"

Shirley hesitated. In the vast muddle in her brain there lingered some idea that it was not fair to betray the whole of Roger's confession to Alan.

"Because he knows that I could put him in prison if I cared to make a few inquiries?" demanded Alan.

She caught her breath.

"You know, then?"

"You told me so, Shirley."

"I?"

"When you were telling me how well you were doing you mentioned that he had made a few thousands over some Stock Exchange tip or other. I knew enough of his affairs to know that he had no capital to invest in a tip on the Stock Exchange. Moreover, the other night when he believed Corto Bellas to stand at fifty-eight, he offered to pay me back fifty thousand dollars."

"By a little simple arithmetic and a study of the market columns I was able to calculate that he must have put over a quarter million into Corto Bellas to be able to make me that offer. He is at his father's game and he must have begun by losing a quarter million."

"I gave him the right to do what he liked with my money," she put in irrelevantly.

"That means that you've lost everything," he pointed out.

"Oh damn the money!" she exclaimed. "We're not talking about that. Are you going to put Roger in prison?"

"No. And I'm not going to threaten him with it—blackmail him into declining to exercise what he believes to be his rights."

"Then—surely you will defend the case?" she tried desperately.

"A lot of trouble and publicity for nothing!" he answered. "You have admitted that your marriage is a failure and you were willing, for whatever reason, to break your marriage vows. I'm sorry if I hurt you, but you must see the plain horse-sense of it. Why not leave it at that?"

"But—" she protested, and bit off the word with a horrible suspicion that she was about to burst into tears.

"Have you had any breakfast?" he asked.

"I don't want any breakfast."

"You had better have some all the same, and we'll see what is to be done. Come along, Shirley."

He led the way into the cottage.

"I shall choke if I try to eat," she faltered as they came inside.

"You won't really," he said. "You have a hard day in front of you—you will want all your strength."

He folded the letter, returned it to its envelope and gave it back to her. His deliberateness alarmed her afresh.

"Alan, before you say anything, let me speak. I'm dreadfully sorry, but I—"

He waved her apology aside. He smiled and she could not fathom the smile.

"I don't want to say anything offensive, Shirley, but—wouldn't it be rather a good riddance?"

The question was so utterly unexpected that for the moment she could not answer.

"I—that hardly seems to the point—of course I've finished with him in any sense that matters—especially after this."

He had begun to walk in the direction of the cottage and she was walking by his side.

"Why be indignant with him for writing that letter, Shirley?" asked Alan. "It's very natural behavior on his part."

"But—he has no cause for—"

And as far as I can see he has a perfectly good case legally."

Somewhat they were missing the point. They walked on a dozen or more paces, while Shirley struggled for words to express what she was feeling.

Shirley went out into the road to wait for Alan.

Shirley had waited no more than a minute when she saw Alan rounding the bend in the road some hundred yards away. Of a sudden, fear sized her, that odd, unreasoning fear of his anger that she had felt before. And because she was afraid of those unknown, elemental forces in him she ran to meet him.

Alan had caught sight of her and wondered why she was waiting in the road. When she began to run it meant one thing only to him—Shirley in trouble. All other thought of her was scattered as he sprinted forward to meet her.

"Hallo, what's the matter?" he shouted, and before she could answer they were abreast.

Shirley thrust Roger's letter at him. She was breathless, more with excitement than with the short run.

"Roger sent me this by a servant," she gasped out. "All the servants know about it."

She kept her eyes on his face while he read the letter. There was a faint flicker of the eyebrows, but beyond that no sign of what he felt.

He folded the letter, returned it to its envelope and gave it back to her. His deliberateness alarmed her afresh.

"Alan, before you say anything, let me speak. I'm dreadfully sorry, but I—"

He waved her apology aside. He smiled and she could not fathom the smile.

CLEANLINESS IS BEST FOR CALF

Every Utensil Should Be Washed and Sterilized.

To have a runt among the calves usually means that some one has failed at the calf management job. Perhaps one of the most over-looked tasks is that of cleanliness of quarters.

"Cleanliness is one of the most essential things in the whole process of feeding the calf," relates James W. Linn, extension dairyman, Kansas State Agricultural college, by way of cautioning dairymen against the ills of unclean quarters and feed. "Especially is this true as long as it is necessary to feed whole milk or milk substitutes."

Every utensil, including the bucket, dipper, separator, and can, should be washed and sterilized at every feeding, recommends the extension specialist. Such a practice will insure against foreign material or bacteria getting in the milk.

Temperature and quantity of milk are important considerations to be given calf management. It will pay dairymen to use a thermometer and see that the milk is kept as near the normal temperature at production time as possible. It is essential to feed the calf its milk at the same temperature each feeding.

Linn recommends weighing to the tenth of a pound the milk fed the calf. His formula calls for one pound of milk to each ten pounds of live weight of calf until 16 pounds daily is reached. Do not increase above that amount.

Proper Feeding Rule to Follow in Cold Weather

It is a good rule in winter feeding to allow one pound of grain or concentrate feed per day to cows for each four pounds of milk they produce testing 3 to 3½ per cent fat; or one pound per day for each three pounds of milk if it tests 5 per cent or more of fat. This rule may be used as a guide to determine how much grain to feed during the pasture season. With the grass still in fairly good condition one-third as much grain as is required in the winter season will ordinarily be enough, but as the season advances and the grass shortens and dries a gradual increase becomes necessary.

Judgment, however, must be the main rule always. The aim should be to maintain production at the condition of the cows. Cows in the advanced stages of their milking periods that are only producing 10 to 15 pounds daily will not ordinarily require concentrate feeds during the pasture season.

Cream Will Deteriorate
Even in Winter Season

Cool weather does not mean that cream can be held several days without damaging its quality, points out J. O. Barkman, in charge of dairy manufacturers at the experiment station of the University of Kentucky.

Sweet cream held at a temperature of 50 degrees for a week or ten days makes a poor grade of butter. Such cream may be of low acidity and sweet to the taste when churned, but the resulting butter will have an old flavor.

Winter cream kept in cellars where such vegetables as onions and cabbage are stored will have a bad flavor. Likewise, cream kept in the kitchen is exposed to the odors of foods being cooked, and to the heat of the stove.

Cream should not be allowed to freeze, as frozen cream makes an oily butter of poor quality.

Small Gold Coins
One dollar coins have not been minted for general circulation since 1889. Since that date some have been issued as memorial coins, the last being the Grant memorial coins, in 1922. The smallest current gold coin is the $2.50 gold piece.

Scatter Cheer
You find yourself refreshed by the presence of cheerful people. Why not make an earnest effort to confer that pleasure on others?—L. M. Child.

The DAIRY

CLEANLINESS IS BEST FOR CALF

Every Utensil Should Be Washed and Sterilized.

To have a runt among the calves usually means that some one has failed at the calf management job. Perhaps one of the most overlooked tasks is that of cleanliness of quarters.

"Cleanliness is one of the most essential things in the whole process of feeding the calf," relates James W. Linn, extension dairyman, Kansas State Agricultural college, by way of cautioning dairymen against the ill effects of unclean quarters and feed. "Especially is this true as long as it is necessary to feed whole milk or milk substitutes."

Every utensil, including the bucket, dipper, separator, and can, should be washed and sterilized at every feeding, recommends the extension specialist. Such a practice will insure against foreign material or bacteria getting in the milk.

Temperature and quantity of milk are important considerations to be given calf management. It will pay dairymen to use a thermometer and see that the milk is kept as near the normal temperature at production time as possible. It is essential to feed the calf its milk at the same temperature each feeding.

Linn recommends weighing to the tenth of a pound the milk fed the calf. His formula calls for one pound of milk to each ten pounds of live weight of calf until 16 pounds daily is reached. Do not increase above that amount.

Proper Feeding Rule to Follow in Cold Weather

It is a good rule in winter feeding to allow one pound of grain or concentrate feed per day to cows for each four pounds of milk they produce testing 3 to 3½ per cent fat; or one pound per day for each three pounds of milk if it tests 5 per cent or more of fat. This rule may be used as a guide to determine how much grain to feed during the pasture season. With the grass still in fairly good condition one-third as much grain as is required in the winter season will ordinarily be enough, but as the season advances and the grass shortens and dries a gradual increase becomes necessary.

Judgment, however, must be the main rule always. The aim should be to maintain production and the condition of the cows. Cows in the advanced stages of their milking periods that are only producing 10 to 15 pounds daily will not ordinarily require concentrate feeds during the pasture season.

Cream Will Deteriorate Even in Winter Season

Cool weather does not mean that cream can be held several days without damaging its quality, points out J. O. Barkman, in charge of dairy manufacturers at the experiment station of the University of Kentucky.

Sweet cream held at a temperature of 50 degrees for a week or ten days makes a poor grade of butter. Such cream may be of low acidity and sweet to the taste when churned, but the resulting butter will have an old flavor.

Winter cream kept in cellars where such vegetables as onions and cabbage are stored will have a bad flavor. Likewise, cream kept in the kitchen is exposed to the odors of foods being cooked, and to the heat of the stove.

Cream should not be allowed to freeze, as frozen cream makes an oily butter of poor quality.

Small Gold Coins

One dollar coins have not been minted for general circulation since 1890. Since that date some have been issued as memorial coins, the last being the Grant memorial coins, in 1922. The smallest current gold coin is the $2.50 gold piece.

MORRIS ADVANCES 1930 FARM OUTLOOK

University Specialist Reviews Conditions Throughout Country at Lions Dinner

POTATO SURPLUS SEEN

Wheat, Oats, and Barley to Drop in Price; Good Market Predicted for Flax

W. E. Morris, farm specialist at the University of Minnesota, gave a comprehensive survey on "Agricultural Outlook" at a speech before the Lions club at dinner last evening in the Ransford hotel in which he reviewed farm conditions for 1929 and what they appear to be for 1930.

Facts emphasized by Mr. Morris, he explained, were gleaned from a country wide survey on agriculture by authoritative bodies.

Summarizing his speech the following rules may be adopted by the farmer to make the year 1930 as fruitful and prosperous as possible:

Continue the present dairy operations. Cull out poor cows.

Feed hogs with low priced grains and milk surplus.

Raise flax as a cash crop.

Cut down acreage of wheat, rye, and potatoes as indications are that farmers are apt to stand heavy losses in these operations in 1930.

Keep present flocks of sheep but do not increase them. There is still money in the sheep industry unless expanded.

"Generally speaking all products have their ups and downs whether they be in crops or livestock. The tendency is that when the commodity has a period of big earning power it produces an overproduction resulting in lower prices. This is strongly emphasized by the trend of sheep. For several years the market remained high and as a result farmers entered sheep raising on a large scale. This caused a drop in prices. Lambs sold last year for 18 cents a pound and are down now to 12 cents a pound. Wool was up to 35 cents a pound but will not reach above 28 cents a pound this year," Mr. Morris said.

"An eight percent increase is predicted over last year or about two million lambs. This in itself indicates a drop in prices," Mr. Morris continued.

"The good market on hogs in 1929 indicates a still better market in 1930 due to the fact that the hog market has not yet reached a normal. At the present time there are about five percent less hogs than last year.

"Beef cattle reached a peak in 1929 and will continue to be good in 1930. Dairy cattle have been going through a slump but will show a comeback towards the middle of the year.

"Another favorable outlook for the dairymen is the fact that a surplus of grains of all kinds would indicate they will be low in price. This will lower the farmers cost of operation making the net returns on dairying higher than when high feed prices prevailed. The indications for 1930 are that wheat, oats and barley will be low in price.

"Flax will probably be high priced and farmers can well afford to put in large acreages.

"The indicated acreage of potatoes shows that there will be at least a five percent increase. If an average crop results this will mean a yield of over 420 million bushels in the United States which has a normal consumption of 380 million bushels a year. With a normal crop for the indicated acreage prices would tumble and would resemble conditions as in 1924 when the farmer received 27 cents for a bushel of potatoes. The farmers are urged to cut down on their potato acreage for the year 1930," Mr. Morris said.

The speaker was introduced by County Agent E. G. Roth.

MRS. GUNHILD BYE PASSES 86TH YEAR

Has Made Brainerd Her Home For 48 Years; Spends Day Quietly With Her Family

Mrs. Gunhild Bye, 723 South Seventh street, today passed the 86th anniversary of her birthday. The day was spent quietly with her family. Mrs. Fred Halliday, a daughter, of Staples was in the city and spent the day with her.

Mrs. Bye is one of the old residents of Brainerd and well known by all in the city. She has made her home in Brainerd for the past 48 years, almost reaching the half century mark.

Mrs. Bye was born in Tiondhen, Norway and after coming to this country settled at Ishpeming, Mich., where she lived for two years. In the fall of 1882 Mr. and Mrs. Bye moved with their family to Brainerd where he was employed for several years with the J. J. Howe Lumber Company.

For a few years they also lived on a farm three miles southeast of the city.

The past eight years Mrs. Bye has spent at her home on South Seventh street.

When she first came to Brainerd, Mrs. Bye stated, there was a path through the brush where the Washington high school now stands. Back of the present location of the post office was a forest of jack pines, and at that time the Catholic church stood where the Houle Motor Company building is now. In the years spent here, she has been able to watch the steady growth of Brainerd from a small town to its present size.

Among her many friends are two ladies whom she knew in Norway, Mrs. Louis Peterson of South Sixth street and Mrs. Nels Hegstad on Norwood street.

Mrs. Bye has six children, John M. Bye and Miss Hannah Bye of Brainerd, Johan Bye living at Norway, Mich., William Bye at Santa Cruz, Calif., Guy Bye of Crosby Beach, Crosby and Mrs. Fred Halliday of Staples.

MORRIS ADVANCES 1930 FARM OUTLOOK

University Specialist Reviews Conditions Throughout Country at Lions Dinner

POTATO SURPLUS SEEN

Wheat, Oats, and Barley to Drop in Price; Good Market Predicted for Flax

W. E. Morris, farm specialist at the University of Minnesota, gave a comprehensive survey on "Agricultural Outlook" at a speech before the Lions club at dinner last evening in the Ransford hotel in which he reviewed farm conditions for 1929 and what they appear to be for 1930.

Facts emphasized by Mr. Morris, he explained, were gleaned from a country wide survey on agriculture by authoritative bodies.

Summarizing his speech the following rules may be adopted by the farmer to make the year 1930 as fruitful and prosperous as possible:

Continue the present dairy operations. Cull out poor cows.

Feed hogs with low priced grains and milk surplus.

Raise flax as a cash crop.

Cut down acreage of wheat, rye, and potatoes as indications are that farmers are apt to stand heavy losses in these operations in 1930.

Keep present flocks of sheep but do not increase them. There is still money in the sheep industry unless expanded.

"Generally speaking all products have their ups and downs whether it be in crops or livestock. The tendency is that when the commodity has a period of big earning power it produces an overproduction resulting in lower prices. This is strongly emphasized by the trend of sheep. For several years the market remained high and as a result farmers entered sheep raising on a large scale. This caused a drop in prices. Lambs sold last year for 18 cents a pound and are down now to 12 cents a pound. Wool was up to 35 cents a pound but will not reach above 28 cents a pound this year," Mr. Morris said.

"An eight percent increase is predicted over last year or about two million lambs. This in itself indicates a drop in prices," Mr. Morris continued.

"The good market on hogs in 1929 indicates a still better market in 1930 due to the fact that the hog market has not yet reached a normal. At the present time there are about five percent less hogs than last year.

"Beef cattle reached a peak in 1929 and will continue to be good in 1930. Dairy cattle have been going through a slump but will show a comeback towards the middle of the year.

"Another favorable outlook for the dairymen is the fact that a surplus of grains of all kinds would indicate they will be low in price. This will lower the farmers cost of operation making the net returns on dairying higher than when high feed prices prevailed. The indications for 1930 are that wheat, oats and barley will be low in price.

"Flax will probably be high priced and farmers can well afford to put in large acreages.

"The indicated acreage of potatoes shows that there will be at least a five percent increase. If an average crop results this will mean a yield of over 420 million bushels in the United States which has a normal consumption of 380 million bushels a year. With a normal crop for the indicated acreage prices would tumble and would resemble conditions as in 1921 when the farmer received 27 cents for a bushel of potatoes. The farmers are urged to cut down on their potato acreage for the year 1930," Mr. Morris said.

The speaker was introduced by County Agent E. G. Roth.

BANK OF ENGLAND EXCHANGE RATE

London, March 6.—(U.P.)—The Bank of England exchange rate today was reduced from 4 1/2 p-2 cent to 4 p-cent.

The bank rate reduction today put the rate at its lowest since October, 1925.

It was understood the Bank of England's reserve recently was the highest ever recorded. While further large gold shipments were en route and foreign money markets were tending toward lower levels.

The lower bank rate will cheapen the government's cost in borrowing on treasury bills and also will stimulate industry, reducing the cost of advances to trades.

BANK OF ENGLAND EXCHANGE RATE

London, March 6.—(U.P.)—The Bank of England exchange rate today was reduced from 4 1/2 per cent to 4 per cent.

The bank rate reduction today put the rate at its lowest since October, 1925.

It was understood the Bank of England's reserve recently was the highest ever recorded. While further large shipments were en route and foreign money markets were tending toward lower levels.

The lower bank rate will cheapen the government's cost in borrowing on treasury bills and also will stimulate industry, reducing the cost of advances to traders.
